Lives and works in Sydney, New South Wales

Painter and printmaker Dean Brown is known for his formal renderings of figures and objects that contain a characteristic stillness and speak to moments in time. Brown's works are bold but they realise time in a way that is steady and quiet. Every angle is regarded, each striking colour (when colour appears) is carefully selected.

Shrouded in stillness and anonymity, Brown's paintings contain both a familiar and enigmatic quality, with his patient eye and laboured handiwork rendering everyday pursuits, objects and commutes. Still life works depict glasses, bowls and fruits enveloped in rich vibrant hues set against a seemingly pared back background and evoke a kind of intrigue in the everyday. While his works are meditatively formulated, diffusing calmness and tranquility, they also exude dynamism.

Brown has been a finalist in the Archibald Prize, the Australian Print Triennial Prize, Fremantle Arts Centre Print Award, Mosman Art Prize and the Burnie Print Prize.
